

Delightful Comedy "When Kitty Eloped" Ably Played By the Clairmont Players

Before altogether too small an audience the Clairmont Players gave an excellent presentation of the comedy-drama, "When Kitty Eloped," at the Capitol Theatre on Wednesday evening.

While the play is basically a comedy, there runs through it a serious strain. Briefly stated, the play portrays bubbling youth rebelling against unnatural restraint—hence eloquence and a touch of tragedy, interspersed with clever comedy.

Before the play opened, Phil Alt, director, stepped before the curtain and explained the play.

In the character of Mrs. Vansant, known as the "Duchess," a stern lady of the old school, whose sole ambition in life was wealth and position, Catherine Alt was excellent, lending to the part that dignity and austere character of a woman of the type of the "Duchess."

Mrs. Catherine was simply splendid as secretary to the "Duchess." Possessing a good speaking voice, she gave her lines with a charming effect and was at home on the stage at all times.

Miss Margaret Moore was called upon to play a dual role—first the daughter of the "Duchess" and later as Kitty Vansant the second. In both characters she was splendid, being particularly clever in the latter part.

Rev. J. E. McNeill as Payson, the family lawyer, and Connie Callister as Hattie, were the fun makers, making their biggest hit when Hattie was finally proposed after knowing Hattie for some thirty years. The proposal was slightly delayed, but Hattie was thrilled nevertheless.

As the second wife of Hal McAllister, Mrs. R. Bellamy acted the part well.

Frank Durda as the butler and Walter McAllister as Hal Jr. both did credit to their respective roles.

George O'Hara as an adventurer and riding master looked the part and acted it. In the difficult portrayal of the character he lent a naturalness which won favor.

And last, but not least, there was Billy McNeil, who played the part of the animal trainer. Billy did not act the part—he was the character, as typical man of the West.

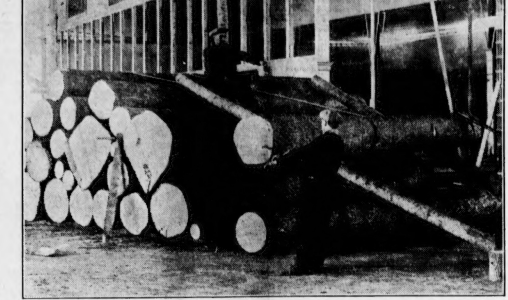

Director Alt thanked R. P. Fitzpatrick, who arranged the production, and J. E. McNeill, who played the part of the animal trainer.

LOGGING ON THE PRAIRIE—BUT NOT IN A LUMBER CAMP

Are there trees in the West? There certainly are. The above picture shows the first work being done on display exhibits in the huge building to house special features of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to open at Regina this summer. This pile of logs will form part of the Saskatchewan exhibit. This is the first exhibit upon which construction has started and it is planned to have the whole completed only a few days before the opening on July 24. The timber shown is all from the woods of northern Saskatchewan.

Definite Signs Improvement in Conditions

Says J. Venus, Manager of Union Oil Company of Canada, Limited, Who Was a Recent Visitor To Grande Prairie.

J. Venus, of Calgary, manager of the Union Oil Company of Canada, Ltd., was a recent visitor to Grande Prairie and while here inspected the company's plant, which is in charge of Mr. Venus.

Interviewed by The Tribune reporter and asked if the company intended branching out further in the Peace River, Mr. Venus replied that his company, like other companies, felt the need of adopting a very careful policy. Conditions, he said, had forced them, with others, to make plans, but he could see very definite signs of an improvement of general business conditions.

As an evidence of improved conditions, Mr. Venus pointed out that his company had enjoyed an increase in volume for the past two months, compared with the same time of last year.

Referring to the local business, Mr. Venus observed that the local business was very optimistic about the future. He reported that the general improvement in grain prices will have a more direct bearing on prosperity than any other factor.

Mr. Venus had had something to say about a new gasoline product which the company recently perfected. Plans are being completed for our new gasoline, which will be known as "New Union 75," a gasoline designed to meet the advance made by automotive engineers in the production of engines for high compression ratios.

Mr. Venus said that considerable work was being done in the field of engine development. He said that the company was very optimistic about the future of the gasoline business.

G. P. Postmaster Left Holding a Package of Bees

People have been left holding all kinds of things from babies to parcels, but last week the postmaster left with a package of bees on his hands.

A week ago Tuesday a package of bees arrived in town by mail, addressed to E. R. Clarke. As this person did not call for the bees, Postmaster Cameron made enquiries, but was unable to find the bees' owner.

In the meantime the postmaster's case to worry increased, as the bees were rapidly diminishing the number of bees, not having had any previous experience with the business of honey, especially in shipment, Mr. Cameron called in Billy Salmond, who examined the hive and found the bees in the feed tin were clogged. Following the inspection, Billy, who understands bees, mixed some food for them, poured it into the container, and in no time the bees were as lively as crickets.

As E. R. Clarke could not be found, Billy eventually took the swarm home, where, it is stated, they are buzzing around in a manner becoming healthy bees.

If Mr. Clarke will call at Mr. Salmond's farm, which adjoins Grande Prairie to the north, he can have the bees. Of course he will also have to see the postmaster and sign the necessary papers.

Seeding East of the Smoky

George Deloit of Deloit, who is a visitor to Grande Prairie after a absence of several months, informed The Tribune that planting and seeding had commenced east of the Smoky, where there was a lighter fall of snow than on this side of the river.

The snow, he said, disappeared last summer, and although the ground was much rain fell the past few days, planting and seeding conditions were better on the other side of the river.

ROOSEVELT A MAN OF ACTION

President Roosevelt took no time in getting into action. He evidently knew before he was elected that watching and waiting was not the way to go. He was a man of action, and he showed it from the very first. He promptly took off his coat and got to work and tackled the whole problem like a man of action. He was a man of action, and he showed it from the very first. He promptly took off his coat and got to work and tackled the whole problem like a man of action.

When the financial system fails to function in the same manner that a machine fails, it is not a machine that is broken, but a man. The man who is in charge of the machine is the one who is responsible for the failure. The man who is in charge of the machine is the one who is responsible for the failure.

From time to time The Tribune has contended that a policy of adjustment, so far as the United States is concerned, if it is successful, its success will have a beneficial and far-reaching effect on the world at large.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and President Roosevelt are two of the most prominent leaders of the world. They are two of the most prominent leaders of the world. They are two of the most prominent leaders of the world.

The premier of Canada, R. B. Bennett, has promised a new era of co-operation in assisting in getting the world on a rational basis. In fact, the leaders of all nations have agreed to do so. The fact that history will not repeat itself and conditions will not gradually get back to normal is a definite fact.

With this background, it begins to look as if the coming World Economic Conference is to be held at London will result in agreements among the nations which will finally put the world back to normal.

Never since the depression started have things looked so bright and promising.

HIGH TARIFFS A VIOLATION OF NATURAL LAW

Since the Great War nations have gone off at a tangent in a mad effort to make themselves self-sustaining. Tariffs have been prohibitive. And what has happened is that countries which should be growing grapes, for example, have grown wheat—of a kind. In other words, the natural law has been over-riden and the starvation of international trade. Ships lie idle in the harbors and sailors hulk about on the docks with nothing to do.

Nature has determined that different parts of the world can successfully grow certain things, and if a man will work in accordance with the laws of nature, and not against them.

There are those who advocate attacking down wheat acreage and for western Canada to grow more fruit and berries. This is all very well, but what of the vast areas unsuitable for wheat farming? If it is to survive, wheat must always be the great staple product for the world.

High tariff policies, faced by the stagnation of international trade which has obtained for the past few years, stands convinced that the tariff wall is at least to some extent a violation of the law of nature.

PALESTINE'S DEARLY RYAN

The Dead Sea, located in Palestine's most dry region, and whose banks lay for centuries as dead as the desert, has at last come to life. The sweep of commercial activity, according to a statement made in The National Messenger, printed at London, England: "Up to this morning, at a spot which is now a modern spa in a course of erection, hotels and restaurants are being built here as well as a large resort, bathing establishment and sports ground."

The story goes on to say that a magnificent road will be built which will put traffic in being built which will put

The method was employed in causing the great "Black Tom" explosion in New Jersey, back in the days of the World War, is graphically described in a recently published book, "The Dark Invader" by Captain John H. Hinton, a former member of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The espionage system in America before the United States declared war on the Central Powers, Von Hinton describes the "pencil bomb" by which Germany was able to place explosives in Great Britain and in Europe. Although Von Hinton was in a British prison camp at the time of a "Big Tom" explosion, he was able to have engineered the explosion, and he was released in Germany. He has written the book to tell the story it tells, but because of the dedication, For von Hinton has had a 22-year-old daughter of the master spy was mentioned in the recent courtmartial in which Lieutenant Bailie-Stewart, a British officer, was charged with the explosion. Von Hinton denied that his daughter had any connection with the "Marie Louise" mentioned in the case, although he admits the evidence.

Accompanied by General Italo Balbo, Italian air chief, Dr. Herman Goerring, German Minister for Aviation and one of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's most trusted lieutenants, is pictured as he gave the Nazi salute to a guard of honor composed of Italian infantry men as he arrived for a conference with Premier Mussolini at Rome. It was out of this conference that the proposal for a two-power pact between Germany and Italy developed.

Here is pictured a remarkable experiment recently conducted at a New York school for the deaf, whereby deaf children were enabled to hear. Instead of trying to make the sound penetrate the ears of the sufferers, this device carried mechanical vibrations through the bones of the head. Countess Olga Albani is shown singing into a microphone as the deaf children listen. This was the first time many of the children had ever heard music.

Britain's first rail-air line, organized by one of the railway companies in the Mother Country, was opened by the inauguration of a regular combined service between Cardiff and Torquay and Teignmouth. Passengers at Cardiff are shown having their tickets checked by officials at the door of the aeroplane.

In ideal weather and with about 100 persons aboard, the new U. S. Navy dirigible, "Macon," is pictured as she took the air for the first time at Akron. Below the giant ship is the portable mooring mast, tethered to which she was taken from her hangar. This was the first of six flights which the Macon will make as tests before she is officially accepted as a unit in the United States Navy.

HOLDING "ENJOYMENT WEEK"
Lord Mayor of London Sponsors
Seven-Day Festival

Under the auspices of the Lord Mayor, London will hold an "Enjoyment Week," starting May 27 and concluding like the proposed execution in Gilbert's "Mikado," with "general rejoicings and a grand display of fireworks" on June 3, the King's birthday. "A week of festival," says the Lord Mayor, "will undoubtedly have the effect of getting the people to take the brighter view of the situation. The situation is by no means as bad as is supposed in some quarters, either," added his lordship.

Hardly secondary to this aspiration though is the desire to further popularize London as a tourist centre. It is hoped the program will include a pageant procession and a gala demon-

Canadian gold production in January last totalled 233,456 ounces, as compared with 266,719 ounces in the preceding month, and 233,826 ounces for the corresponding month in 1932.

Ontario led the provinces for the month with 171,789 ounces. Quebec was next with 33,491; British Columbia produced 17,904 ounces, Manitoba 10,491, and Nova Scotia 241 ounces.

The most accurate estimates of unemployment in America are supposed to be those of the American Federation of Labor. The Federation estimates that in the month of January more than 12,600,000 American wage-earners were idle, an all-time record. The Federation advocates the shortening of the work week to 50 hours, estimating that thus immediate employment could be given to 6,600,000 of the unemployed.

An unbreakable milk bottle has been developed in Pittsburgh. The bottle is first molded in one piece from cellulose to the shape of the standard half pint, pint and quart glass containers. It is then impregnated through its entire wall thickness with a research creation, "opax," a tasteless and odorless wax-like material. The bottle will not soften under constant exposure to water or lactic acid, it is said, and will pass through present types of filling and capping machines.

Dr. Ferruccio Zanier of Trieste, Italy, claims to have rediscovered the process used by early violin makers, who were able to produce the deadening and sweetening effect of stringed instruments. New York Audience Sees Strange Things At Benefit Show

An audience in a New York theatre applauded the other night as a woman "burned to death" before their eyes. They asked questions of a grisly skull and marched forward to have their pockets picked. One man even smiled as his new derby hat was used as a mixing bowl for pancake batter.

These strange events took place during the annual benefit show of the Society of American Magicians.

The audience relished Joe Kelso's derby hat trick and grinned delightedly as the borrowed derby was filled with batter, which changed mysteriously into six hot pancakes, leaving the derby steaming but unblemished.

Inventor Of Moving Picture Camera
Lost Millions and Died Penniless

A recent report from the Surrogate office showed that Jean A. Le Roy, inventor of the motion picture projection machine, died penniless. The millions of dollars that were rightfully but not legally his, went to others because he neglected to patent his invention soon enough.

An ironical feature is that Le Roy's last few years were spent in poverty. Paralyzed, he subsisted largely on the bounty of friends. All he had at his death was reputation, but that doesn't pay doctors' or food bills. And that slender sustenance came to him

For many years the origin of the motion picture camera remained shrouded in mystery. There were many claimants. An impartial investigation finally allotted the honor of being the father of the motion picture industry to Le Roy. But it was not until two and one-half years after he had perfected the first projection machine that Le Roy got the idea he ought to patent his invention. Then he found he had been six months too

Le Roy's experience is not novel in the history of invention. He lived in an age when the commercial idea was not so prevalent as now. He gave his first public exhibition of moving pictures in 1864. His statement on why he never patented his machine expressed, perhaps, better than ever before, how so many inventors lived to see others reap the enormous profits of their genius. Said Le Roy: "I didn't patent my invention because I didn't realize what I had. That is the real truth. It was unfortunate for me that my knowledge of patents and patent law was exceedingly meager. Like the average inventor, I centered my interest in the invention itself, to the absolute exclusion of everything else."—From The New York Times.

One thing about sunsets is that small towns have just as big ones as the large cities, and a danged lot easier to see.

Although Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, Washington society matron, hopes to raise $250,000 by the sale of her famous Hope diamond, it is probable that she will not be able to do so. The diamond, a 12-point, 11-starred gem was offered to them for the sum of a thin dime. The great diamond has an evil reputation which has followed it down the years since the time it was brought out of Central Asia. It is said that the first owner of the gem was a Chinese who first came into prominence when Louis XIV of France gave it to his wife as a bride gift and the curse is supposed to have asserted itself and France was brought to ruin. The diamond was later sold to the Parisian jeweler, who sold it to the India and Co. of London. Lost for two centuries, the stone reappeared in England when Lord Francis Hope presented it to his wife, Mary Hope, for a wedding present. Lord Hope later divorced his wife and the diamond was sold to a Jew, who sold it to a Russian, who sold it to a Frenchman, who sold it to a man who was drowned, and the stone became the property of Prince Kantorsky, who was assassinated. Edward McLean bought the diamond from the man who was drowned, and he sold it to Mrs. Evelyn McLean, who was the wife from whom he is now estranged, and since that time the diamond has been in the possession of Mrs. McLean.

O'BRIEN HAD HARD FIGHT WITH BOELKE AT LACOMBE

Patsy O'Brien writes Barry Crammy describing his fight with Boelke at Lacombe, which Patsy won on a foul. According to the letter, the bout was a good one. Boelke being at all times dangerous.

"My right arm," wrote Patsy, "was black and blue from the wrist to the shoulder from blocking punches, but I was not hurt. Boelke got so desperate he could not punch, but the only hurt I received was a cut over the left eye."

As Boelke has been winning his fights by the knockout route, Patsy is naturally quite pleased over his victory.

Patsy stated that he expects several fights in the near future on the outside.

QUALITY OF PEACE RIVER HOGS ARE IMPROVING

The determining factor which sets the standard for the different grades. Many of the hogs coming to this market have the correct type grade bacon or select, but are missing that grade because they lack weight or finish. Many of these hogs have sufficient weight, according to the grade standard, to grade bacon, but are only grading butchers because they lack the required finish.

"General improvement in the grade of hogs coming to market at the present time could be made by more finish. The following are some of the types of hogs coming to market where more weight and finish would increase the market value at least one grade.

"There are many select type hogs coming to market at weights around 150 to 180 pounds. These hogs are not heavy enough to weigh off cars at 160 pounds nor will they weigh 160 pounds when fed and watered at Edmonton. These hogs should grade select and although they may have the finish are graded bacon on account of being under the grade weight. If these hogs were fed to twenty pounds more weight they would grade select and bring fifty cents more per hundred than the present price.

"Another class of hog coming to market is the long of head bacon type that weighs just 150 pounds at point of shipment. This hog must be finished, but with the shrink of shipping just weighs enough at Edmonton to miss the grade and fifty cents over the butcher price. This hog, like the select hog, twenty pounds heavier would make a higher grade and the additional price of fifty cents per hundred.

"The last shipments have had a number of hogs that were a few days from last year. These hogs are eight and ten months old, and while many are coming to market at two hundred pounds, they lack finish and are being graded at Edmonton as feeders. As at a discount below butcher price of fifty cents per hundred. These hogs if fed to 240 pounds would still grade as butchers and gain one grade.

"Hogs that are kept until they are eight and ten or more months old before being shipped are likely to be light in the rib, slack in the ham and loose in the flank and will not cut out an even side of bacon.

"The last two shipments of hogs from this district have contained per cent of hogs which would be classed as not having enough weight and finish. The majority of these hogs would have graded one grade better had they been twenty pounds heavier. Had these hogs gained one grade and been paid at a weight of 200 pounds their owners $1.50 more per hog.

"Peace River hogs are subject to a very heavy shrink due to the long rail haul to market, and it is very important that all our hogs have the correct weight and finish before they are shipped. If they are to get the grade to which they are entitled. This applies to Peace River hogs more than to any other hogs marketed in this province, so that hogs have the same long rail haul to market.

"Correct hard finish can most easily be obtained by finishing with wheat or barley, and a longer period of hogs with correct weight and finish will give the feeder a better grade and more of the profit for his labor to which he is entitled."

Reggie (clutching rabbit): "Couldn't we give him father instead?"

Pat: "I could not. 'Tis my wife's child for her husband."

"WANHAM NEWS"

The Wanham Progressive Club members and their husbands are to have a surprise party on the district office the morning hours on Friday evening. A pleasant time was had by all present.

Pickard, our local blacksmith, had the misfortune to cut his hand while splitting a wheel, resulting in a very bad laceration between the thumb and first finger which required six stitches.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Bode and J. D. Dwyer left on Friday's train for Dunvegan to attend the local and social in preparation for their trip to Lake Louise which they are making this summer.

The local community wish them the best of luck.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Randolph and family arrived on Friday's train and took up land in this district. Mr. Randolph is a farmer.

Mr. E. Porter received a wire from the N. E. engineer to rush a crew of men to the Hurt River to repair the slide in the hill at that point. This has relieved the unemployment in the district, at least for the present.

Masses, Christie and McNeil of the United Grand Grange have the honor of driving the first car through the Grande Prairie to Wanham this season. They report very little trouble, excepting between Fredville and the top of the Hurt River. This piece of road is the dirtiest river Mass has and is had every spring; in fact, after every bad rain. It would be a good idea if the municipality could see a way clear to do this—to allow some of the settlers in the locality to take off their taxes by running ditches north so that the water would have way of draining off instead of lying in the middle of the road. Amen.

WORLD'S LARGEST CLOCK

The world's largest clock is on the new building of the Shell Anglo-Perian Oil Company, in London. The building, costing about five million dollars, occupies the former site of the old Victoria. Dimensions of the clock are not stated. If larger than the clock on the Colgate building, Jersey City, it must be colossal.

It is said on the letter one is 35 feet across and the dial in Boston with a dial 34 feet across.

HON. ROBT. WEIR OPTIMISTIC

Oshawa, Ont.—Increased markets and better prices for Canadian cattle, hogs, chickens, dairy products, fruits and poultry in Great Britain and other countries of the empire are opening to the Canadian farmer. This was the substance of an address by Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, before a gathering of farmers.

Made a Flat Out of a Tomb

A man in Poland distinguished himself by converting a tomb into a flat and living there for a year before he was turned out. He had in the tomb a herring, chair, stove and other things, and kept the tomb so clean that he had removed the original occupant. In the neighborhood, he had the reputation of being a ghost. The police finally got him.

"A nice sort of welcome," said the father visiting his son at boarding school. "I am hardly out of the trap when you ask me for money?"

"Well, dad, you can't say that the train was twenty minutes late."

Kid: "Now, but that date last night was fresh."

Kid: "Why didn't you slap his face?"

Kid: "I did, and take my advice, never slap a guy when he's driving home."

Chief: "You going to sell kinees at the ribby-banquet tonight. Do you think a dollar each is too much to charge for them?"

He: "No. People expect to get cheated at these affairs."
